Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: The prerequisite for passing the course is attendance at a minimum of 90% of the teaching and active participation of students in class. The evaluation is in accordance with the classification scale according to the Study Regulations of Matej Bel University. a) continuous assessment: Continuous evaluation is not performed. b) final assessment: The basis for the award of the final grade is the demonstration of mastery of the knowledge of the lecture material, which is demonstrated in an active dialogue with the teacher in the teaching of the subject.
Learning objectives: The aim of the subject is to present the basic features of the development of the state and law from ancient times to the 20th century. It is intended to clarify to the student how law was born, what stages of development it went through in terms of form and content, with an emphasis on the development of public and private law (basically) in the countries of Europe and the USA. After completing the subject, the student should be able to understand the historical context, understand the authentic meaning and content of contemporary terms, clarify the meaning and content of legal institutes, critically evaluate historical legal institutes, the philosophical and value roots of law, and on their basis should be able to create his own opinion on current law and legal systems (not only) in the European area.
Brief outline of the course: Basic characteristics of the state establishment in the Greek poleis. Greek ancient law. Ancient Rome – constitutional development in individual periods. Brief basics of Roman law - selected institutes. Medieval state and law; feudalism and the feudal system. Sources of medieval law in Europe. Reception of Roman law. Medieval public and private law. Specifics of the Anglo-Saxon legal system. Modern age - anti-feudal revolutions, constitutionalism, modern law codifications. The origin and development of the United States of America. US law. The French Revolution, the codification of law during the reign of Napoleon, the influence on the development of modern law.

b) final assessment: Portfolio of materials from the organized projects:
Learning objectives:
Students will gain practical organizing skills related to foreign students integration (persons with other than Slovak citizenship studying at MBU). They are able to adequately use foreign terminology related to academia. Volunteering provides students with self-realization, they will learn to effectively use their spare time, they will feel useful, needed and meaningful. They will improve their self-confidence or their sense of self-assessment. They will find new friends, gain new knowledge and skills. They will improve their language proficiency. They will gain international and intercultural skills.
Brief outline of the course:
Students will actively participate in the activities related to education, culture, sport and other activities related to the community of foreign MBU students. Students will help with the education processes and with leisure activities or competitions for foreign MBU students. They will integrate foreign students into the communities of other students organizations within MBU and show them other extra-curricular educational activities within MBU.

Type, extent and method of instruction: Form of instruction: Lecture / Seminar Course type: B (A - Compulsory courses, B - Compulsory elective courses, C - Elective courses) Recommended number of periods: 13 / 13 Method of study: combined
Number of credits: 5
Recommended semester/trimester: 1., 3., 5.
Level: I.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: Continuous assessment: completion of the assigned seminar papers 60%. Final assessment: written exam 40%. a) continuous assessment: Completion of the tasks addressing the lecture topics (text reading and analysis) 30 %. Preparation of the seminar paper 30%.
Learning objectives: The student learns the basic concepts related to sociological analysis. They understand the term social structure on the micro level (primary social groups, family) on the middle level (organisations, social networks) and on the macro level (institutions, stratification). They learn about the sociological analysis of culture, deviation analysis, and the dynamics of social development in modern society. In terms of skills, the student can use these sociological concepts to analyse the ongoing processes. Based on understanding the concept of placement, they also understand the position of the social participants in social reality. In terms of competences, upon completion of the course, the student understands the structural context of human activities, can explain the basic relationships between actions and the social structure, can apply the basic sociological approach to explain current issues, and can explain these basic concepts to other audience as needed.
Brief outline of the course: 1: Sociology as an analysis of modern society 2: Culture and society, socialisation 3: Mass culture 4: The group-based structure of society and social networks 5: Inequality and social stratification 6: Work and organisations 7: Social control and deviation 8: Political power, state, and democracy 9: Where and how to find sociological data

University: Matej Bel University in Banská Bystrica
Faculty: Faculty of Arts
Code: 1d-bpo-004	Course name: State exam / Bachelor's thesis defence
Type, extent and method of instruction: Form of instruction: Course type: A (A - Compulsory courses, B - Compulsory elective courses, C - Elective courses) Recommended number of periods: Method of study: combined
Number of credits: 10
Recommended semester/trimester: 5., 6..
Level: I.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: The writing of a bachelor's thesis is one of the conditions for completion of the state examination. Finishing the bachelor's thesis is dependent on consultations of the thesis writing process with the supervisor (25 hrs in total). The bachelor's thesis must satisfy all formal and content criteria required for this type of work. The completion of the course is determined by the state examination committee, which will consider reviews of the bachelor's thesis from the opponent and supervisor, as well as the results of the thesis defence. The bachelor's thesis defence is assessed by all members of the committee with a grade range from A to FX. The evaluation will be in accordance to the level at which the problem and content of the thesis is presented and whether the questions posed in the review are sufficiently answered applying the core knowledge of the field of study during the discussion. The final grade for the defence is the average from all the grades given by individual members of the committee.
Learning objectives: Students will be able: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - to learn about basic problems of the individual disciplines of systematic philosophy and their interrelations, - to acquaint themselves with key solutions to the problems, as well as with arguments and counter-arguments that either support or refute their stance, - to gain a basic understanding of the historical evolution of philosophy and understand the difference between the historical and systematic approach to philosophical problems, - to apply the knowledge during analysis of the issues addressed in the bachelor's thesis, - to identify key problems of the philosophical approaches analysed in the bachelor's thesis and reconstruct their reasoning when solving specific problems, - to adopt a critical standpoint to these solutions and identify flaws in reasoning, - to communicate their standpoints, conclusions, and assessments in written or verbal form and support them with sound arguments.
Brief outline of the course: 1. Selecting key works from specialised literature according to the topic of the bachelor's thesis together with the supervisor

2. Critical processing of selected publications with regard to the topic of the bachelor's thesis
3. Regular consultations of the emergent thesis with the supervisor of the bachelor's thesis
4. Writing the final version of the bachelor's thesis and submission for defence
