Recommended semester/trimester: 1.
Level: I.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: Continuous assessment: completion of the assigned seminar papers 60%. Final assessment: written exam 40%. a) continuous assessment: Completion of the tasks addressing the lecture topics (text reading and analysis) 30 %. Preparation of the seminar paper 30%.
Learning objectives: The student learns the basic concepts related to sociological analysis. They understand the term social structure on the micro level (primary social groups, family) on the middle level (organisations, social networks) and on the macro level (institutions, stratification). They learn about the sociological analysis of culture, deviation analysis, and the dynamics of social development in modern society. In terms of skills, the student can use these sociological concepts to analyse the ongoing processes. Based on understanding the concept of placement, they also understand the position of the social participants in social reality. In terms of competences, upon completion of the course, the student understands the structural context of human activities, can explain the basic relationships between actions and the social structure, can apply the basic sociological approach to explain current issues, and can explain these basic concepts to other audience as needed.
Brief outline of the course: 1: Sociology as an analysis of modern society 2: Culture and society, socialisation 3: Mass culture 4: The group-based structure of society and social networks 5: Inequality and social stratification 6: Work and organisations 7: Social control and deviation 8: Political power, state, and democracy 9: Where and how to find sociological data
