The student will be able to introduce the period of Slovak literary classicism as a period in which national-revivalist attempts were created. The presentation of the key personalities and works of this period at the current level of the scientific research. Emphasizing the continuity of Slovak romanticism with previous literary development; analysis of the most significant literary works and the ability to present them creatively. Literary-historical overview of poetry, prose and drama of Slovak realism in the last third of the 19th and at the beginning of the 20th century in the form of the creative overcoming of the literary tradition, the constitution of the features characteristic for the realistic concept of art and the anticipation of modernism. The meaning of modernism in the evolution of the Slovak literature.

Brief outline of the course:

Cultural and social relations in Slovakia in the period of literary classicism and sentimentalism. National revival in Slovak literature. Theoretical foundations of European classicistic literature and the specific features of the first phase of Slovak literary classicism - enlightening character of poetry and prose. The functional orientation and genre composition of literature. Ideological and aesthetical values in the works of A. Doležal, J. Fándly, J.I. Bajza. Theoretical foundations and manifestations of sentimentalism in the second phase of Slovak literary classicism - the most significant representatives (J. Kollár, J. Hollý), the idea of the Slavic mutuality. Biedermeier in Slovak classicism. Beginnings of Slovak dramatic literature (J. Chalupka).

Theoretical foundations of European romanticism and specific features of Slovak romantic literature, relation between romantic literature and the folk literature. The social, political and aesthetical program of Slovak romantic generation. Typological personalities of the particular representatives of Slovak romantic prose and poetry. Specific features of the period between romanticism and realism. Basic developmental tendencies of Slovak literary realism in the background of the social situation in the last third of the 19th century. Romantic literary tradition and the founding generation of realists (S. H. Vajanský, P.O. Hviezdoslav, M. Kukučín, E.M. Šoltésová, T. Vansová). Literature as the expression of the modern conflict between the individual and social pressures. Subjectivization and orientation towards the modern by the younger generation of realistic authors (the prose of B.S. Timrava, the prose and drama of J.G. Tajovský, the poetry of Ľ. Podjavorinská).

Number of credits: 10
Recommended semester/trimester: 5., 6..
Level: I.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: The writing of a bachelor's thesis is one of the conditions for completion of the state examination. Finishing the bachelor's thesis is dependent on consultations of the thesis writing process with the supervisor (25 hrs in total). The bachelor's thesis must satisfy all formal and content criteria required for this type of work. The completion of the course is determined by the state examination committee, which will consider reviews of the bachelor's thesis from the opponent and supervisor, as well as the results of the thesis defence. The bachelor's thesis defence is assessed by all members of the committee with a grade range from A to FX. The evaluation will be in accordance to the level at which the problem and content of the thesis is presented and whether the questions posed in the review are sufficiently answered applying the core knowledge of the field of study during the discussion. The final grade for the defence is the average from all the grades given by individual members of the committee.
Learning objectives: Students will be able: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - to learn about basic problems of the individual disciplines of systematic philosophy in their interrelations, - to acquaint themselves with key solutions to the problems, as well as with arguments and counter-arguments that either support or refute their stance, - to gain a basic understanding of the historical evolution of philosophy and understand the difference between the historical and systematic approach to philosophical problems, - to apply the knowledge during analysis of the issues addressed in the bachelor's thesis, - to identify key problems of the philosophical approaches analysed in the bachelor's thesis and reconstruct their reasoning when solving specific problems, - to adopt a critical standpoint to these solutions and identify flaws in reasoning, - to communicate their standpoints, conclusions, and assessments in written or verbal form and support them with sound arguments.
Brief outline of the course: Brief outline of the course:

<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Selecting key works from specialised literature according to the topic of the bachelor's thesis together with the supervisor 2. Critical processing of selected publications with regard to the topic of the bachelor's thesis 3. Regular consultations of the emergent thesis with the supervisor of the bachelor's thesis 4.
