University: Matej Bel University in Banská Bystrica
Faculty: Faculty of Law
Code: 2e-KPP1	Course name: Clinic of Legal Counseling I.
Type, extent and method of instruction: Form of instruction: Lecture Course type: B (A - Compulsory courses, B - Compulsory elective courses, C - Elective courses) Recommended number of periods: 9s Method of study: combined
Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester/trimester: 2.
Level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: The prerequisite for passing the course is active participation of students in the course and successful completion of the final exam (100%). The evaluation is in accordance with the classification scale according to the Study Regulations of the MBU. a) continuous assessment: Continuous evaluation is not performed. b) final assessment: The method of student assessment is specific and takes into account the student's work in providing legal advice in collaboration with selected partners throughout the semester. Prerequisites for course assessment are: - active participation in the provision of legal advice, - final evaluation by the supervisor. The examination (final oral interview) will be based on the above principles and will be an individual evaluation of the student's work.
Learning objectives: As a result of completing the course, students acquire practical skills related to the legal profession. In the clinic, students will meet with clients, interview them with an emphasis on noting the client's key issues and points of their legal problem, and then address the issue raised under the supervision of a supervisor (Legal Aid Center, private/third sector lawyer, designated educator). The student will learn to think in broader logical as well as multidisciplinary contexts within private and public law based on which he/she will strengthen his/her analytical and synthetic skills in the field of law. They will learn to apply the knowledge of all branches of law that they have acquired during their studies so far.
Brief outline of the course: Students provide basic legal advice in collaboration with selected partners, the Legal Aid Centre or the non-profit sector under the expert guidance of a supervisor. In counselling, the student will provide basic legal assistance to the client with options for resolving his/her problem or referring him/her to the appropriate agency authorized to address his/her problem. Students are not authorised to draft submissions for clients to the courts or other authorities, nor to provide legal advice to clients outside the legal advice centre.

Learning objectives: After completing the course, the student is able to assess and apply the knowledge acquired through studies in the field of international judicial cooperation to a professional and scientific problem. After completing the course, the student is proficient in the stylistics of English legal texts and is able to apply, evaluate and de lege ferenda develop legal proposals for solving those problems in the field of legal relations with foreign countries and international judicial cooperation which are essential for its effectiveness and rationality in criminal proceedings. In the framework of this course, students examine the harmonisation of legal norms of Slovak criminal law with the law of the European Union. In the course of teaching, a lot of attention is paid to the activities of Europol, Eurojust, OLAF.
Brief outline of the course: International Judicial Cooperation in Criminal Matters is a subject of the Master's Degree in which the lecturer is given an explanation of not only the cooperation in criminal matters between EU countries, the Lisbon Treaty, theoretical and practical aspects of legal relations with foreign countries, but also Eurojust, which will provide a detailed view of the current form of this European institution and also the possibilities of its future development in the light of the Lisbon Treaty, and at the same time the lecturer will be given an explanation of the possible future establishment of the European Public Prosecutor's Office. In this case, the cooperation in question is that which takes place exclusively between EU Member States in the field of criminal law, involving legal instruments of international cooperation in criminal matters that have been created both within the European Union and between Member States originally outside that framework, such as the Schengen Agreements or other legal instruments, which pre-date the EU.

Number of credits: 3
Recommended semester/trimester: 1.
Level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: The prerequisite for passing the course is active participation of students in the course and successful completion of the final exam (100%). The evaluation is in accordance with the classification scale according to the Study Regulations of the MBU. a) continuous assessment: Continuous evaluation is not performed. b) final assessment: The method of student assessment is specific and takes into account the student's work on the course throughout the semester. The conditions for course evaluation are: - participation in internships in selected institutions, state and local government bodies according to the current offer of the PrF UMB or in another professional institution as agreed with the course supervisor, - written evaluation of the student by the supervisor from the internship. The examination (final oral interview with the course supervisor) will be based on the above principles and will be an individual evaluation of the student's work based on the supervisor's evaluation.
Learning objectives: By completing the course, students will acquire the skills necessary for the work of a lawyer by carrying out legal practice in selected organisations with a legal focus. Students have the opportunity to learn about different legal professions and the individual activities arising from these professions. The student has the opportunity to verify his/her theoretical knowledge acquired through studies in practice while working under the guidance of supervisors.
Brief outline of the course: The main idea of the course is to provide students with the opportunity to gain knowledge and experience from practitioners, especially from major professional institutions, which can have a significant impact on the future professional and life direction of law students. Students will acquire knowledge, legal skills and experience in the real legal profession in a practical way. The internship will be carried out according to the current offer at various public institutions, state and local government bodies, or in the private sphere. E.g. in courts, state administration bodies, local government bodies, as well as in selected law firms, notary offices, bailiff offices, Legal Aid Centres, etc. In selected institutions students will work under the guidance of supervisors - employees of the institutions.

Students interested in selected internships from the internship offer for the current academic year will have the opportunity to apply for them during the semester according to the actual conditions (oral or written selection procedure), which will be established well in advance before the beginning of the academic year by the course supervisor.

Number of credits: 20
Recommended semester/trimester:
Level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: The evaluation of thesis processing assesses the level of thesis processing in terms of formality, the topicality of the topic, including the justification of the choice of the topic with regard to the social importance of the issue under study. The selection of a sufficient number of relevant literary sources of book and journal character, their arrangement into a coherent whole and the own critical discussion of the presented theoretical concepts are evaluated, as the author of the thesis has to demonstrate the required level of processing of the theoretical part of the thesis. An important role in the evaluation of the thesis is played by the evaluation of the practical application of the chosen theoretical concepts, which are the content of a separate part of the thesis or are contained in its conclusions. The supervisor as well as the opponent of the diploma thesis will evaluate in his/her statement the contribution and usefulness of the diploma thesis, possibly indicating recommendations for the author of the thesis. In his/her opinion, both the supervisor and the thesis opponent have the opportunity to indicate questions for the author, which the author must be able to answer at the thesis defence at the required level in order to successfully defend the thesis. More detailed criteria for assessing the level of thesis processing are contained in the Internal Quality System of UMB.
Learning objectives: The difficulty of the final thesis corresponds to the master's degree of study and thus also to the expected extent of the acquired theoretical knowledge, mastering the methodological instrumentarium of the scientific field and, last but not least, the skills of their use in solving specific scientific and practical problems. The diploma thesis has a theoretical-applicational character. In the diploma thesis the student demonstrates the ability to work competently with the conceptual apparatus of the field of study, the ability to creatively use a wide range of literary and other information sources, to analyze, classify and systematize diverse facts, to justify the presented ideas by argumentation, as well as to formulate practical conclusions and recommendations in a refined manner.

Code: 2e-ŠSO-KTPKKaFD	Course name: State exam
Type, extent and method of instruction: Form of instruction: Course type: A (A - Compulsory courses, B - Compulsory elective courses, C - Elective courses) Recommended number of periods: Method of study: combined
Number of credits: 20
Recommended semester/trimester:
Level: II.
Prerequisites:
Course completion conditions: The evaluation of thesis processing assesses the level of thesis processing in terms of formality, the topicality of the topic, including the justification of the choice of the topic with regard to the social importance of the issue under study. The selection of a sufficient number of relevant literary sources of book and journal character, their arrangement into a coherent whole and the own critical discussion of the presented theoretical concepts are evaluated, as the author of the thesis has to demonstrate the required level of processing of the theoretical part of the thesis. An important role in the evaluation of the thesis is played by the evaluation of the practical application of the chosen theoretical concepts, which are the content of a separate part of the thesis or are contained in its conclusions. The supervisor as well as the opponent of the diploma thesis will evaluate in his/her statement the contribution and usefulness of the diploma thesis, possibly indicating recommendations for the author of the thesis. In his/her opinion, both the supervisor and the thesis opponent have the opportunity to indicate questions for the author, which the author must be able to answer at the thesis defence at the required level in order to successfully defend the thesis. More detailed criteria for assessing the level of thesis processing are contained in the Internal Quality System of UMB.
Learning objectives: The difficulty of the final thesis corresponds to the master's degree of study and thus also to the expected extent of the acquired theoretical knowledge, mastering the methodological instrumentarium of the scientific field and, last but not least, the skills of their use in solving specific scientific and practical problems. The diploma thesis has a theoretical-applicational character. In the diploma thesis the student demonstrates the ability to work competently with the conceptual apparatus of the field of study, the ability to creatively use a wide range of literary and other information sources, to analyze, classify and systematize diverse facts, to justify the presented ideas by argumentation, as well as to formulate practical conclusions and recommendations in a refined manner.
